The matter of setting the salary limit has not yet been definitely settled. Rock Hill and York want the salary limit placed at $2,000, while Chester and Union want it at $1,650.

Chester has raised around $1,800 of her share and those soliciting say that they will secure the balance without any great amount of trouble. It is planned to get the league started by June 18th.

New Scholarships To Clemson

Beginning with next session every county in South Carolina will be entitled to a scholarship in the Two-year Agricultural Course. Seven appointments will also be made from the State-at-large.

These scholarships are open to young men eighteen years of age or over, who have spent not less than three years on the farm. Entrance is based upon the equivalent of ten units and the scholarship examinations will cover the work completed by the average rural school. Each scholarship is worth $100.00 and free tuition of $40.00.

Beginning at 9 A. M. on Friday, July 13, 1923 competitive examinations for the award of these scholarships will be held by the County Superintendent of Education.

This course offers an opportunity to young men for any reason it is impossible to spend four years in college. The aim of this new course is to teach better farming methods as well as the business of farming. Subjects such as zoology, farm management, and English are required in addition to the vocational subjects like soil fertility, farm crops, dairying, live stock farming, cotton grading, farm machinery, injurious diseases, orchard and truck products, etc. The work is arranged to permit a transfer to the freshman class at the end of the first year for the students with sufficient preparation.

Examinations for the award of four-year scholarships and for credit toward entrance into the freshman class will also be held on the same day and at the same time. For all information write at once to The Registrar, Clemson College, S. C. Summer School for Teachers, for College make-up, etc. June 11 to July 21, 17.

Epidemic Hysteria.

By H. Addington Bruce.

To medical psychologists there is nothing extraordinary in the trifling real of late displayed by numerous people in dancing many hours with out once stopping. Their performance is merely an outburst in a special form of a social malady technically known as epidemic hysteria. Never can the special form itself boast novelty. For this is by no means the first time that the world has witnessed a "dancing mania." In the early years of spiritism—that is, in the '40s and '50s of last century—frenzied dancing was at times a feature of seances, so that as many as 50 men and women might be seen whirling about. The same thing happened still earlier at revival meetings, first on persons, then another being seized with an irresistible impulse to dance.

And there even were dancing mania long before spiritism or revival meetings were heard of. Occasional instances are reported as far back as the 13th century, but more notably being one that occurred soon after Europe was swept by the black plague. As recorded by a student of epidemic hysteria:

"The black death over, the dancing mania began. About the year 1370 thousands of dancers filled the streets of European cities. So virulent was this epidemic that peasants left their plows, mechanics their workshops, and housewives their domestic duties, to join the wild dance."

"Girls and boys quitted their parents, and servants their masters, to look at the dancers, and readily imbibed the poison of mental infection."

In Italy the epidemic, reached such a height and became so common that few persons could claim to be entirely exempt from it."

Fortunately nothing like this has developed in connection with the latest dancing mania, which is likely to be short lived if only because it has as motive the establishing of endurance records. Obviously the higher the record set, the fewer persons will attempt to break it, until at last all give over trying.

"Yet psychologically the mania of today is as significant as any earlier mania of its sort. It goes to prove that, despite the boasted advances in education, large numbers of people remain unduly suggestible, uncritically responsive to ideas, no matter how extravagant and absurd. Also it goes to prove that large numbers are in a state of nervous irritability so extreme that they welcome even exhaustion as a means of gaining relief from tension."

Partly, no doubt, this may be attributed to the strains of the war period and of the present uncertain reconstruction period. But in large measure the blame must again be put on educational shortcomings, and especially on the failure of education to foster poise, strength of character and a wholesome life attitude.

Always those most immune from hysteria and other nervous disorders are those who have most self-control and best know how to meet the varied demands of life. Always the gaining of self control and of adaptability is the product chiefly of training of education, fitness when nervous disorders are rampant, most of all when outbreaks of epidemic hysteria occur, warning given that the educational system is somewhat at fault.

In one way or another such warnings have been given century after century. Will mankind forever pay to them no heed?

BRIEFLY TOLD.

Because of the fact that dishonest individuals in religious disguise have by willful misrepresentation obtained from the government permits to secure so-called "sacramental wines" for pretended religious ceremonies, when such permits were in reality to obtain offices for commercial purposes, the trustees of the Holy Spirit Temple in Trenton, New Jersey, urged, in resolution, action toward the revocation by the Federal Government of the privilege of using wine for religious purposes.

A new material, "Bravolette," is used by a German inventor in the manufacture of safety razors. It looks like ivory, tortoise shell or marble, depending on the manner in which it is manufactured. The advantage of this material lies in the fact that the apparatus cannot rust. There is no need to dry the razor after use, it is accident to rinse it. Another advantage is that it is cheaper than razors made of metal.

Dr. George Clarke Houghton, rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, better known as the Little Church Around the Corner, in New York, died recently. At one time the Little Church Around the Corner was a favorite resort of runaway couples, but Dr. Houghton drew up a set of rules requiring every such couple to produce evidence of parental consent before the ceremony. He refused to marry divorced men and women. During his pastorate more than 15,000 persons were married in the Little Church.

THAT SPRING FEVER.

By Bruce Beiden, M. D.

From time immemorial people have fancied that in the spring they need some sort of eliminating medicine, such as sulphur and molasses, or some kind of tonic.

This is because it is the spring time that they are likely to experience anguish—or a general feeling of having been let down a bit. It is this state which has been described as "Spring fever."

It is particularly the members of the younger generation who are singled out for special mention as the recipients of fearsome mistletoe and vaulted antics at this season of the year.

These remedies usually upset the stomach and add the general system unnecessarily. As for those of unknown composition, certainly there is no reason for their employment, no matter what the claims.

The real reason why so many people feel a general letting down in springtime at this season is because they continue to live and eat as though the winter were not over. Vegetables and suitable clothing are not taken into sufficient account, and more food is eaten than required in the warmer weather.

The stimulus of cold is gone, yet there is a failure to adapt to the changed conditions. We also feel the effects of activity more. We should indeed be active, but we must fit our organisms to the change—also we will experience unwanted fatigue and foolishly expect to rejuvenate ourselves merely by taking medicine.

What we need in the spring is more fresh air and out of our homes and offices and shops, more vegetables and fruits and less meat, more sleep, and sensible adjustment in the way of clothing. This is the way nature would have it.

There is no artificial method that will meet the requirements, which are simple enough, after all. Only the common-sense scientific course will prove effective.

Of course, if there are actual defects acting as factors, a physician should be consulted.

Prize Shoots Boy.

Detroit, Mich., June 1.—Rev. Father Michael G. Epper, pastor of the St. Boniface Catholic church, today shot and slightly wounded Harold Smith, 14, of Sudbury, Wis., as the boy made a dash for liberty, after, it is alleged, he was caught in the act of robbing post boxes in the church.

FIGHT THE WEEVIL.

Failure to Fight the Boll Weevil Means Certain Crop Failure.

By S. Presley Coker, Secretary-Treasurer and General Manager of Humphrey-Coker Seed Company.

The supremacy of MAN over the BOLL WEEVIL is certain when man is willing to WORK and use his intelligence. The supremacy of the BOLL WEEVIL over man is just as certain, when man is lazy, indifferent and fails to use his intelligence. The BOLL WEEVIL is never lazy and shows his intelligence by staying with the man who is too lazy to fight. Therefore it's up to man to get busy, if he expects to win.

It is very, very important that we begin poisoning the boll weevils early. This article is to urge every farmer to make his plans at once, get his poison and molasses ready and mix over his entire crop a few weeks before any square form. This work is easily done and the materials will not be expensive.

Use the following mixture: 1 gallon water; 1 gallon molasses (black strap). Sufficient for two acres.

Mix the water and calcium arsenite thoroughly and then mix this with the molasses and apply it as a mop. Old rags tied to the end of a stick will make a satisfactory mop. The value of this early work can not be emphasized too much. It gets the old weevils before they can lay eggs in the squares. Remember! This is very important to make this application before any squares appear.

We would urge that you make a big effort to find the places where the boll weevils start on your farm. They usually begin in definite spots, near some piece of wood, a wood pile, near a stump or old building. If you find these places and spend your best efforts in these spots (picking squares, poisoning, working) you can keep the weevils under control until August, when the migration period sets in, without having to work over the whole farm. Next let to find these spots and it will be a harder fight over your entire acreage.

We are sure that those who fight hard, poisoning and cultivating the crop fast, will be more repaid in the resulting crop.

There is considerable discussion as to the best method of fighting the boll weevil, after cotton gets big and begins to square freely and the boll weevil begins to function normally, whether to use the Molasses Calcium Arsenate mixture or Calcium Arsenate Dust. This is some what disturbing to many farmers and some are hesitating as to which method to follow. Don't hesitate, choose ONE method and go after the fight. It is certain that either method will give good results, when coupled with hard work, intelligent application and fast crop cultivation.

Last season we applied the above mentioned Molasses-Calcium Arsenate mixture early, before cotton squared, and then we followed the dusting method and we made as high as 2100 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Others used the molasses mixture straight through with good results. This proves that both methods have worked well. Choose the one you will follow and determine now to go after the weevil with your best efforts, for to prove your supremacy over the weevil you must WORK, WORK, hard work, intelligently and never give up.

Secretary of Labor Davis was at one time an iron puddler employed in the rolling mills of Birmingham, Alabama.

NEW METHOD OF LURING LABORERS TO THE NORTH

Agents Are Sent Through South on Trains Distributing Handbills at Stations.

Columbia, June 1.—Despite the obstacles here against labor collection, a new method of luring laborers to the Ellyian fields north of the Mason and Dixon line was employed yesterday. When one of the New York-Florida Seaboard trains passed through, standing on the rear platform was a man with a handful of bright yellow circulars. These he was distributing to negroes and others whom he could attract to the train platform. The presumption is that the same game was worked at every station where the train halted.

But the tale was told by the circular. It was a yellow sheet and told a luring tale of the colored man's El Dorado. It said that 10,000 negro men were wanted by the Carnegie Steel company, at its Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York plants. It stated further, and boldly, that the minimum wages would be 40 cents an hour and that the hours of work would be 10, 11 and 12 a day. It appears that the negro men who answer this ad will find themselves awaiting sea winds of hope as they get through wishing for the Dixie land of cotton and watermelon.

The circular ended by saying that

Farm Flocks Run Production

Clemson College.—Through poultry raising is one of the side lines on the general farm, on some farms it plays an important role, and many more farmers than formerly are now asking: How can I get my hens to pay more money?

"One of the big secrets of poultry profits is egg production," says N. E. McNeil, Extension Poultry Husbandman, as part answer to this question. If the hens do not lay a great number of eggs, we can not expect them to return a profit. Furthermore, our egg production should be great during the fall and winter when the prices are relatively high.

In Bingham, South Carolina, Mrs. W. C. Hatchell, who raises White Leghorns, made her chickens lay 175.2 eggs per bird per year. This was accomplished through proper housing, feeding, and other management problems.

J. F. Glines, at Ballentine, breeder of Rhode Island Reds, made his hens lay 154.31 eggs per bird per year.

How many flocks are getting similar production? Those not getting it should breed up the flock so as to increase production and profits.

applications were to be sent only to the Richmond employment agency which printed the yellow doggers.
